THINK

COREUPT.COM

CoreUPT.com is here to listen. We are waiting for your comments, and ready to respond to your suggestions, whether that be on our site, in forums, by email, or even at times by video.

Whenever we can, we are here for our riders, whether you choose our skis or not; to listen, to reply, to understand. Because at the end of the day our goal is to bring the cutting-edge improvements to our products that only regular trying and testing can tell us about.

We are here so that you can forget the skis beneath your feet, so that wherever on the planet you may be you'll never have to wait more than 48 hours for your goods.

We are here to bring you solutions when your skis break, because with these new toys you'll definitely be pushing yourself to the limit.

We are here so you can share great moments with all those skiers, well-known and less well-known, who use the same equipment as you.

CoreUPT.com is a listening brand, a brand of service and perpetual communication. Now over to you to write a few lines...

FAMILY

The Coreupt.com team is more than 11 exceptional riders. It's 11 brothers 'in glide' who share their passion for skiing. From big brother Guerlain Chicherit (who is far from the most sensible) to the legend Candide Thovex, they form a united front. All the various trends in freeskiing can be found within this team, whether it be Xavier Kuhn and his skiercross or Gus the budding rail genius. Yet, they all like to get together amongst friends to share a great powder day or a freestyle session; all together, without worrying about who's the best. The important things are the shared experiences, the improbable tales from travels all over the world, or an in-depth discussion about one-or-the-other's pro-model. That's why we can find a piece of Adrien Coirier in TJ Schiller's skis, a little bit of Vincent Chenal in the pop on Golby West's pair, or the playful, dancing character of Candide in Richard Permin's FS BC model. And the culmination of these exchanges can be felt throughout the range, as with Justin Dorey's Casper, a pipe-specific ski, or the Sonar, the new freestyle backcountry ski for girls.

So here are the CoreUPT.com riders' skis; those they wanted, those they thought up and designed themselves, with their experience and their aspirations; skis they have invented, together, for you.

COLOR

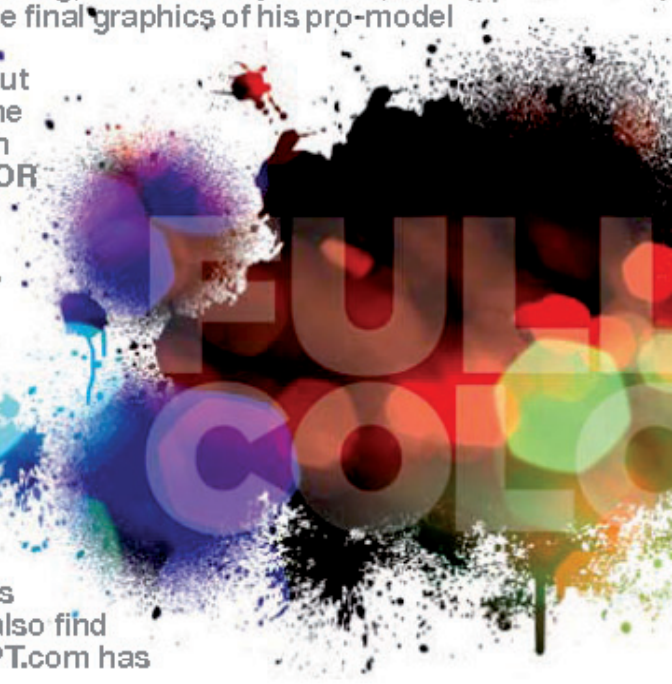

New year, new collection, new concept ... For 2010/11, CoreUPT.com adds a dose of novelty and innovation, with a new and unique concept FULL OF COLOR. The CoreUPT.com team, sporting 10 of the best riders of the moment, got together, united in the mission of painting, each rider by himself, the basis of a ski design, over which the final graphics of his pro-model would be added.

FULL OF COLOR comes out of a desire on the part of the riders for real implication in their brand. FULL OF COLOR comes out of a desire to show the same unity in the ski collection as reigns amongst the team. FULL OF COLOR is a project to produce real pro-models that include much more of the riders than just their names. It was an ambitious project but the results are in, and for you to discover at SIA, ISPO or in the pages of our catalogue. You will also find 5 new models that CoreUPT.com has developed:

- Justin Dorey's pro-model pipe ski
- A 'fat' freeride ski
- Guerlain Chicherit's revamped freeride pro-model
- A women's freeride ski
- A special rail ski

One thing that doesn't change for 2010/11 is the care and attention taken in the choice of raw materials and the quality of production. Products are tested, adapted, changed and tested again, for even better performances and more fun.

Warning: Not to be skied in moderation!

PRODUCT

▶ SHAPE

Proportionality: CoreUPT.com has decided to maintain the original proportions of each of its pro-model skis, and so slightly alters the dimensions depending on the length. Whatever size you may be, you always ride the exact skis our riders have designed!

PIN TAIL: a classicly shaped ski, with a larger nose than tail.

▶ WOOD CORE

To give you unrivalled strength and durability, CoreUPT.com skis are made from silver birch wood (10mm laminated timber).

▶ SYMMETRICAL SANDWICH CONSTRUCTION

The combination of a wood core and ABS bi-density sidewalls, brings you lively and powerful skis.

▶ BI-DENSITY REINFORCED SIDEWALLS

Bi-density reinforced ABS sidewalls absorb impacts for an aggressive ride.

▶ FIBRE

Tri-axial fibre: for optimum grip and a better longitudinal flex. You'll be just as comfortable free riding as in the park!

▶ ANTI-POP-OUT UNDER-FOOT PLATE

CoreUPT.com wants to help you protect your equipment. This system considerably reduces the risk of your bindings popping out.

▶ TOP SHEET

For the ultimate in style and to keep the graphics of your skis in perfect condition, CoreUPT.com has chosen a back printed top sheet.

▶ THE FINISHING TOUCHES

■ EDGES

90 degree angle, perfect for cutting up the mountain.

■ STONE FINISHED

Stone finished cross structure for a super fast base no matter what the conditions.

■ SKI PIERCING

Here at CoreUPT.com our skis are pierced with a 3.5mm wide drill bit, to a depth of 8mm. A drop of glue is added to guarantee water tightness.

■ WAX

CoreUPT.com has chosen VOLA® to wax your skis.

TRAIL COMPANY
COREUPT.COM

Ski bindings CoreUPT.com has been working hard to bring you the best in ski bindings, and can now offer a range suited to your needs!

DLD 12 ski bindings:

Based on the shape of the famous PX Look, the effective system of the DLD 12 ski bindings will be perfect for all those young skiers wanting to protect their knees!

DLD 15 ski bindings:

Just like its little sister the DLD 12, the DLD 15 ski binding is based on the design of PX Look, but for those who ski big and hard. It benefits from a lateral pivot, but also a vertical pivot to release the foot on those big falls!

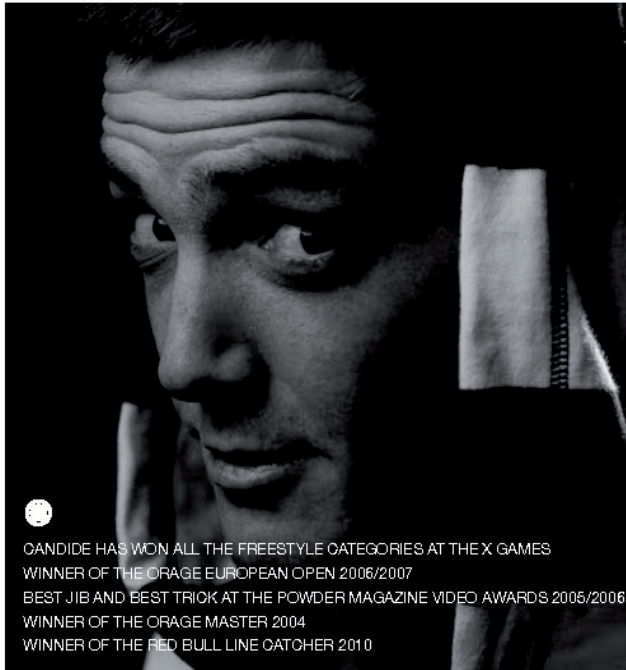

INSURANCE COREUPT CARE : SOME MORE OF TRANQUILITY

At CoreUPT.com we have paid great attention to the quality of the skis we produce, but we know all too well that riding hard can seriously damage the health of your skis! Freestylers know better than anyone: rails are dangerous for your edges and your 'soles'. Freeriders will tell you the same thing: couloirs that are more rocky than snowy are often out to damage your equipment and stop you having fun! No matter what brand your skis, Candide Thovex's backcountry freestyle pro-model ski, the Candide Pow, has been designed to offer ease and fluidity of ride for aspiring backcountry freestyle skiers. Surprisingly comfortable and easy to handle whatever the terrain, the Candide Pow can accomplish even the most radical of missions, «in style» of course!

100% true twin-tip ski, the Colby West pro-model is a freestyle ski ideal for half-pipe riders. With an extreme side cut for extra boost in the pipe, the pop on these Colbys is quite simply mind-blowing. In short, the Colby West 2011 is a weapon with which to win the X Games, and its decor, like Mr. West himself, devastating!

Canadian freestyler, Justin Dorey, joined the CoreUPT.com team at the beginning of the 2010 season. Together, CoreUPT.com and Justin have designed a pipe-specific ski, with tight, fast lines, for maximum height on those exits! The powerful and aggressive ride of this double spatula ski will satisfy all you freestylers looking to take it to the next level in the pipe.

Richard Permin is a solid freestyle skier who also loves freeride. He was looking for a unique ski, suited to both the park and the backcountry! CoreUPT.com has created a composite construction: progressive rockered tip / slightly rockered tail. Richard Permin's pro-model is thus a freestyle-freeride ski, ideal for riding the backcountry.

For the 2010 season, CoreUPT.com has also thought about the stars of junior freestyle skiing. The Young Gun junior skis are aimed at young, ambitious freestylers, thanks to their amazing pop and excellent stability in the air. Suitable for young skiers over 1 m 35 high, this new junior ski enables progression in freestyle whilst remaining nimble on the pistes.
